CBGB's to close this month!

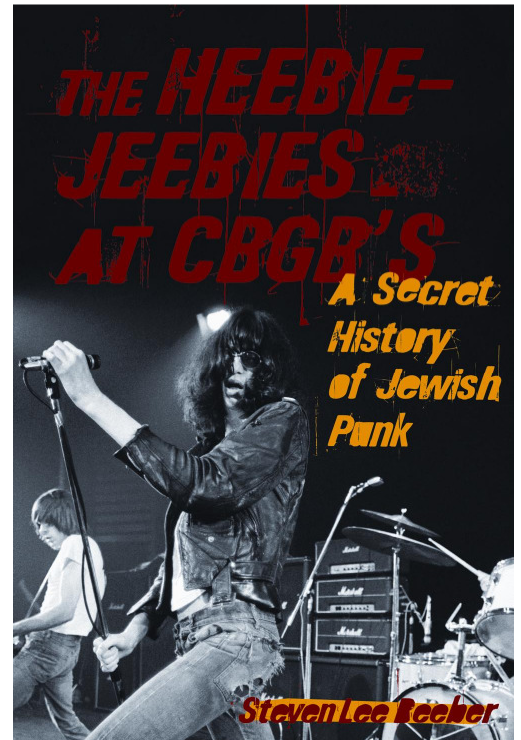

Friday, October 13—Author Steven Lee Beeber will host a party to celebrate his new book, The Heebie-Jeebies at CBGB's: A Secret History of Jewish Punk.

The launch party takes place on Friday, October 13 from 6–8 p.m. at CBGB Gallery (313 Bowery, New York, NY, 10003). There will be notable guests in attendance related to the punk music movement and the historic CBGB venue.

This event is free to the public. A book signing and Q & A session will follow. For further information on the event, contact Micheline at (212) 677-0455 or email micheline@cbgb.com.

In The Heebie-Jeebies at CBGB's, Beeber follows the explosion of punk at the iconic Lower East Side venue, tracing its origins, temperament and attitude to integral Jewish New Yorkers like Lenny Bruce and Joey Ramone. Early punk venues, including CBGB, Max's Kansas City and the Mercer Arts Center, are highlighted in the New York-centric chronicle. Beeber also shows how this early New York, Jewish punk continues to influence popular artists like the Beastie Boys, Courtney Love and Talking Heads.
